Work Going Forward With a Rush at the Rigby Sugar Factory

C. G. Graves and G. W. Palmer, of Logan, representing Beet Growers Sugar Company of Rigby, Idaho have just returned from the Rigby district on an inspection trip of the progress being made by the Beet Growers Sugar Company. They were accompanied by Vice President A. G. Goodwin of this company.

They are pleased to make the following statement to their many friends and stockholders in Northern Utah, that the factory is progressing in a highly and most satisfactory way. In fact, the factory at Rigby is six weeks further advanced than the Delta factory was last year at this date.

The Delta factory which is the largest sugar factory in the Intermountain country was promoted and financed by practically the same officers that are promoting the Rigby factory, with the exceptions of Ex-Governor Hawley and Senator G. E. Hill. The weekly payroll at Rigby amounts to nearly $2,000.00. There are about seventy men at work on the factory site together with about thirty teams. The main line spur from the Oregon Short Line track, to the main building and three other spurs from this, has been graded and ready for the ties and steel to be laid.

The foundation for the main factory building has been excavated and the large pit for the pulp is nearly completed. This is a huge basement over 300 feet long and 200 feet in width. An excellent quality of gravel has been struck in this excavation just what the company needs for its concrete work in erecting the big factory building, which obviates the expense of hauling this material from other parts. This is a big saving in both time and expense to the company. A large well has been dug on the premises and plenty of water is found 35 feet from the surface.

A six or eight inch hole will be drilled in the bottom of this well to a sufficient depth to insure an unlimited supply of water for general factory use.

Several car loads of machinery, lumber, brick, cement, concrete mixer and large boiler and engine are already on the ground. The payroll mentioned will be doubled and trebled and the people of Rigby already appreciate the great benefit of having large amounts of money put in circulation in that community.

It is needless to say that the citizens and beet growers of Idaho and northern Utah are our best friends and boosters. On account of co-operative principle of this factory which will be owned by the people and controlled by the people and therefore the profits made will be paid to the people instead of its being a closed corporation and the sugar profits going into the pockets of a few people.

The company has beet acreage contracts signed for 7 years, longest contract ever given to any sugar company, for over 6000 acres of sugar beet acreage. This district is called the sugar bowl of the inter-mountain country, owing to the high saccharine and sugar purity of the beets grown in this district. This particular district, to use the government words, is the largest and best irrigated farm land districts in America, they have been growing sugar beets successfully in this district for ten years. The feeder canal, the largest irrigation canal in America, runs through this 100 acre factory site, owned by the company. One great asset in regard to the water used for irrigation in the Snake River Valley, is the fact that the water is owned by the people and not by any corporations.

A. P. Cooper who built the Moroni Sugar Factory and who has built and operated successful sugar factories all over the United States, the past twenty years for the leading sugar companies, will build and operate the Rigby factory, which gives this company the highest efficiency in not only construction but operation.

The public at large in northern Utah and Idaho, are showing their appreciation of securities which we are offering with the largest earning power and possessing the highest safety factor of any securities ever offered to a large number of people by their liberal subscription of this stock.
